BALTIMORE WATERCOLOR SOCIETY
SEMI-ANNUAL SIGNATURE ARTIST MEMBERSHIP JURYING GUIDELINES

All work submitted must be original watermedia on paper.

All work submitted must be original in concept and execution, and not copied or derived from a student class or workshop.

Screening is done twice a year -- in March and in October at a time and place designated.

Prospective members will be notified of their status by mail within ten days of the screening.

No formal critique of submitted art works (paintings or slides) is given.

All artist members are encouraged to participate in at least one exhibition during each year.

Applicants may submit art works for review more than once.

PAINTINGS WILL BE EVALUATED USING THE FOLLOWING GUIDELINES:
(FOR DETAILS SEE THE "SIGNATURE MEMBER JURYING CRITERIA" SHEET INCLUDED)

ARTISTIC MERIT

Demonstrates working knowledge of basic elements of design, e.g.: line, color, value, texture, shape, etc.; pleasing in design, sensitivity and composition

ORIGINALITY

Original in concept and execution (not copied or derived from a student class or workshop)

TECHNIQUE

Overall handling and control of the medium

CONSISTENCY IN QUALITY AND STYLE

All four paintings are of good quality

OVERALL PRESENTATION

Framing and matting are well-selected and well-cut (or) slides are of professional quality

SUGGESTED GUIDELINES FOR ARTISTS SEEKING SIGNATURE ARTIST MEMBERSHIP IN THE BALTIMORE WATERCOLOR SOCIETY

To help you decide whether your skills and experiences have prepared you for Signature Artist membership in the Baltimore Watercolor Society, you may wish to consider the self-assessment list below of characteristics successful Signature Artists bring to the Society. Please keep in mind that the mission of BWS is to encourage, educate, and promote professional excellence in the creation and development of original works of art executed in water-based media. The galleries in which we exhibit expect no less. While we welcome all artists who are eager to share the joy of watermedia painting and the camaraderie of fellow painters, Signature Artist members are expected to demonstrate a level of proficiency that is commensurate with their education and experience.

The list below is NOT a BWS list of requirements, but merely food for thought as you prepare your entry for possible BWS Signature Artist membership.

EDUCATION

Does your art education include:

- Enrollment in watercolor classes three or more years?
- Enrollment in classes or workshops with various instructors?
- Knowledge about watermedia materials and methods?
- A degree in studio art or art education?

Do you:

- Read/study/purchase books/periodicals on painting?
- Participate in BWS events (trips, workshops, paint-outs, social events, etc.)
- Have the recommendation of a BWS Board member or BWS instructor-member?

PROFESSIONAL ARTISTS HAVE:

- Ten or more works of art that have been framed and displayed
- Exhibitions or published work (not student exhibitions)
- Been accepted into juried shows
- Successfully sold art works
- Taught or are presently teaching watermedia classes
- Business cards available and/or an artist website
- Signature Artist membership in other watermedia societies

(This self-assessment is for your use only and is not to be included with your entry application.)

BWS SIGNATURE MEMBER JURYPING CRITERIA

The Board of the Baltimore Watercolor Society would like to thank you for your interest in becoming an Artist Member of the Society. Although the Society is unable to offer Artist membership to you at this time, the Board is providing the following list of elements that are considered as each artist's work is reviewed. The elements(s) checked are those upon which the Board feels you might focus. The notes are suggestions which will help you to understand why our decision was made concerning your work and may give you direction as you apply for Artist membership in the future.

Concept:

Some paintings should be considered "high concept" and communicate bold ideas, reflections of the human condition or a particular world view, while others attempt to evoke a mood, capture a subtle feeling, or tell a story. Is each painting successful in communicating the conceptual intent of the artist?

Originality:

Is the subject, the treatment, the composition, or the overall approach of the paintings fresh and original?

Composition:

Do the paintings make effective use of the elements of design and employ the principles of design to create effective compositions which work to achieve the conceptual objectives of the artist? Not all elements and principles are equally important in any particular painting. These elements and principles are discussed in many basic Composition books.

Elements of Design include:

Line
Shape
Texture
Color
Value
Form
Space

Principles of Design include:

Balance
Unity
Emphasis
Variety
Pattern
Proportion
Rhythm
Movement
Gradation

Technique:

Do the paintings demonstrate adequate mastery of technical components to accomplish the goals of the artist? (Not all technical aspects are equally important in any particular painting.) Some important technical aspects include:

Paint application and brushwork
Drawing
Linear and arial perspective
Color mixing
Treatment of edges

Consistency:

Do all the paintings submitted for consideration demonstrate a consistent style and quality?

Presentation:

Is the presentation of the painting or image of professional quality? Is the mat unblemished and crisply cut, and the frame well made and sturdy? Are digital images correctly sized and cropped, showing only the painting – not the mat or frame? The painting or image should be as "exhibition ready" as if they were being hung directly in a show or sent to an exhibit juror.

Suggested criteria for consideration while critiquing "Abstract Paintings or Images":

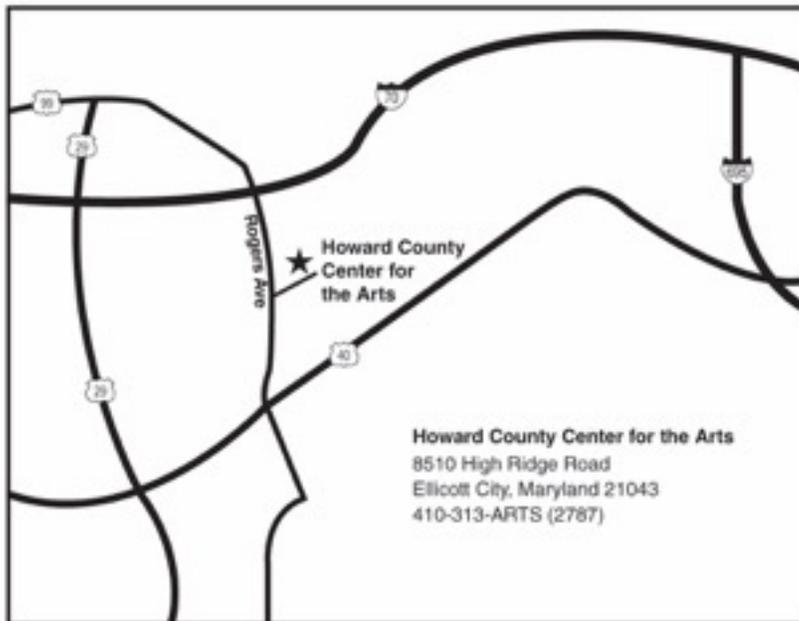

Gray to rest the eye	Balance	Weighting	Areas of visual excitement and area of paucity
Form and eye control	Gradation	Vibration	Mastery of color

Criteria by Rob Talbert.

Abstract Painting Criteria from Robert Genn's weekly newsletter
