

Baltimore Watercolor Society major fall workshop:
"Expressive Techniques in Mixed Watermedia" with Nancy Barch, AWS, NWS
October 14 - 17, 2013 at the Hawthorn Center, Columbia, MD

Rue de Blanc

On the Wild Side

Whiteout

Bluebird

We are pleased and privileged to have nationally-acclaimed Philadelphia artist, Nancy Barch, as our major workshop instructor this fall. Nancy's work has been exhibited multiple times in both American Watercolor Society and National Watercolor Society shows, and she is a signature member of both. You can learn more about Nancy Barch and her artwork through her website at: www.nancybarch.com and watch a video interview at: Nancy Barch Interview

For the BWS this coming October, she will conduct a four-day workshop entitled, "Expressive Techniques in Mixed Watermedia". We will also be utilizing collage and will explore the use of watermedia techniques on traditional watercolor papers and boards and on Yupo. Students will be able to focus on the medium and surface that appeals to them most, after viewing one or more demonstrations. A supply list has been posted on the BWS Membership Website. You can expect to be using your transparent watercolors, as well as a few acrylic colors and pastels. We will be working on 140 or 300 lb paper or illustration board or Yupo. For adding collage elements we will use matte gel medium. You will not need to buy a lot of new materials for this experimental workshop. We will create some beautiful and original works of our own!
